

SCHOOLGIRLS WEARING DRESSES THEY MADE THEMSELVES
They are eighth-grade pupils at the Northern Liberty School, Third and Green streets, where they are receiving splendid training in sewing. In the back row, left to right, are Bella Wiener, Bessie Elgart, Anna Fryman, Catharine Volk. Front row, Lottie Packel, Mary Hyman.

Copyright, International Film Service
THE RESULT OF AN HOUR'S INSTRUCTION IN BANDAGING AT THE LASELL SCHOOL IN BOSTON, WHERE THE GIRL STUDENTS TAKE TURNS ACTING AS PATIENTS

BUSY SCENE AT THE NORTHERN LIBERTY SCHOOL
Fifth-grade boys at work in the class in carpentry in the manual training department.

ADJUTANT GENERAL McCLAIN UPON WHOSE SHOULDERS WILL FALL THE STUPENDOUS TASK OF ORGANIZING THE FIRST ARMY RAISED BY THE SELECTIVE DRAFT

A FULL-BLOODED AMERICAN UNABLE TO SERVE HIS COUNTRY
He is Richard D. Heyle, an Apache Indian, who sought to enlist in the Engineers' Division being recruited here, but was rejected because of defective eyesight.

COHOCKSINK LADS VOLUNTEER FOR WAR GARDENING
Members of the newly formed Boys' Club will plant the plowed fields adjoining the Episcopal Hospital, Lehigh avenue and Front street.

SIR MAC, SAID TO BE CITY'S BIGGEST DOG, WITH A CHILD ADMIRER
This giant St. Bernard is the property of Joseph McGuire, a druggist at Twenty-fourth street and Lehigh avenue.